Hello 777,

Laws in India require us to remind you about the rules for using Google products regularly. These include the Google Terms of Service and the Indian Information Technology Rules.

Because of these rules, you aren't allowed to make or publish certain types of fake images, videos or other content that are illegal. If you break the rules when you use a Google product, we may send you a warning, block your account or take other action. There are more details in the Google Terms of Service.

You'll get another reminder about this soon.

Information for parents and children

If you're a child and your account is managed by your parent, we also sent them this email. You can talk to your parent if you have any questions.

If you help manage a child's account, we also sent them this email. Talk to your child in case they have any questions.
